

RESULTS OF DR OSMANAGICH'S VISIT TO BAHRAIN

From February 20 to 25, 2024, the discoverer of the Bosnian pyramids, Dr Sam Osmanagich, visited the Kingdom of Bahrain. He had a fantastic reception in the capital Manama and meetings with leading people in the fields of cultural heritage, archeology and art. On that occasion, he visited the most important archaeological and historical sites in this country. An initiative on the 'Global Art Pyramid for Peace and Children' was also agreed upon.

In the National Museum of Bahrain, he was hosted by Dr. Salman Ahmed Al Mahari, who is the director of archeology and museums in the Ministry of Cultural Heritage.

The King's commissioner for culture, Sheikh Rasheed, spent an hour in conversation with Dr. Osmanagić working out the details of the global art pyramid.

Member of Parliament of Bahrain Mamdooh Al Saleh Ammar supported this initiative.

The artistic director of this initiative will be the most famous Bahraini painter Abbass Al Mosawi, who has already established an initiative on cultural cooperation between Bahrain and Bosnia and Herzegovina.

With architect Mahdi Al Jallawi, the author of the 'Pearling Path' project, which became a location recognized by UNESCO, a tour of the most significant current and historical locations was conducted.

During his stay in Bahrain, Dr. Osmanagich recorded materials for a feature-length documentary film entitled: "Bahrain - The Search for the Home of the Immortal Enki". In an argumentative way, the search takes place in the locations of the Dilmun civilization.
